STREETS. At one o'clock this morning members of the mob in Cincinnati had climbed to the housetops and were firing upon the militia. Early in the evening the rioters had attacked the militiamen stationed near the jail. Several lives were lost in both attacks. The Mayor has issued a proclamation directing citizens to keep off the streets, and has appointed an advisory committee of 100 citizens. All the available troops in the State have been ordered to the city. Barricades have been erected in all directions.

THE MOB RENEWING THE ATTACK.

HALF A HUNDRED MEN FIRING ON THE TROOPS-THE MOB WORN OUT.

CINCINNATI, March 31 .- 1 a. m.-The mob at about 12:20 a. m. regained courage, and about fifty men are now firing on the troops from Court and Walnut sts. Their fire is telling, and is doing more damage to the troops than any previous attack. A newspaper reporter in a window overlooking the scene just telephones two killed by the troops and carried to drug stores. The remnant of the mob seem determined and persistent, though few in numbers.

The telephone reports the mob's firing as abating; it numbers now only thirty or forty men; they cannot last much longer. Two of them have

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.] CINCINNA* , March 30 .- At 4:30 p. m. the statement was passed from lip to lip of those identified with mischief which could hardly be predicted, any in the building. Some of the books were badly About two hours earlier a crowd of burned around the margin, denuded and scattered, about 100 men and boys collected on the north side but the fragments were collected and together with a volley of firing following. Frederick Smaltz, age Hotel, was shot in the side, the only part of the ruins in dauger of falling. Queen City the ball passing entirely through the body and coming out the right side. The body was picked up by the crowd and borne to H. A. Dusterberg's store, in Clay-st, between the Canal and Twelfth-st., where Dr. Albers, who was present, attempted to adminster to the victsm. Smaltz breathed but three times rest after reaching Dusterberg's where he died. Patrol No. 3 was called and took the body to Habig's. In Smaltz's pocket were found recommendations from Coney Island and Rockaway Beach saying he was an honest, industrious man. The excitement was intense in the neighborhood, and the verdict of everyone who saw the shooting said that it was reckless and uncalled for. Some five or six shots were counted by the observers. Company A, of the 14th Regiment, commanded by Captain G. C. L. Pugh did the shooting. Two or three men were wounded, but not seriously.

MORE CARNAGE IN THE EVENING. At 6:30 p. m. all was quiet, but at 7:30 p. m. the mob again gathered in the streets before the jail, and bloodshed became imminent. At 8:30 the firing again began, the troops in charge of the Gatling gun being fired upon by a crowd of men in an alley about half a block from the barricade. The fire was at once returned by the Columbus regiment, which used the Gatling gun with terrible effect, followed by a volley of musketry. This served to incite the mob still further and a continuous fusilade was kept up. The full effect of the firing is not yet known, though five killed was thought to be the number, and twenty wounded. The mob then quieted down slightly, and an alarm of fire was sent out soon afterward, adding to the general excitement. Troops w re arriving hourly, and the streets echoed to the beat of the drum and the heavy tread of the troops as they marches

A WELL-KNOWN CITIZEN SHOT.

Briggs Swift, one of the most prominent citiseems and business men here, was fatally shot by the milita while standing in front of the Walnut Street House, and was conveyed to his home. By this time the hotels in the lower section of the city were all closed and their dark exteriors increased the general gloom. The troops were severely consured on all sides for their reckless and indiscriminate firing, and this feeling it was feared would lead to further bloodshed. The desire for vengeance on the part of the mob on the militia had now become paramount to the desire for the lynching of the marderers, and the militia seemed to be trying to revenge themselves for the shaughter of their comrades. Soon after the last bloodshed a portion of the troops were sent to Music Hall to guard it from an anticipated attack of the mob on the amory located there. gens and business men here, was fatally

INT TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE! CINCINNATI, March 30 .- The mob last night, after being defeated in its attempt to use the three cannon captured at Music Hall, dispersed gradually but not quietly, as there were two persons fatally and several severely injured. The morning broke over the troubled city and the streets loading to the scenes of Saturday night's carnage and destruction. By 9 o'clock there was a crowd of 10,000 people in the streets surrounding the jail and the burned court house. As soon as daylight came the troops started immediate preparations for the better defence of the jail, and by noon all the streets leading to the place were barricaded with stout oaken fences, barrels of salt, grindstones, inverted wagons, and here and there a boat, a reminder of the late flood. The barricades were hourly strengthened. The scenes in the streets about the court house and jail were truly terrible with the smoking ruins, pools of blood, military were stationed behind barricades of barrels, planks and beer kegs across Main-st. at Ninth, across Court-st, just east of the market space, across Main-st. at Canal, across Sycamore-st, just north and south of the jail, and across Court-st. at Canal. The soldiers at allt hese points, except Court and Canal sts., belonged to the 14th Regiment of Columbus. At the latter point the Duffy Guards (colored) were stationed. All the soldiers stood with their muskets prepared to fire. Some distance from the militia and further from the Court House, at each of these points was swaying mob numbering 2,000 people, and including women and children. The larger numbers, however, were men who were very demonstrative. Any change of position of the militia was greeted with yells and hootings. There was a constant pressure of the crowds toward the barricades, but a line of policemen immediately in front of the various throngs kept them back, after clubbing them over the heads and arresting the most aggressive of the mob.

THE SCENES ABOUT THE COURT HOUSE. The various streets between the barricades and Court House Square were almost deserted, and presented a strange sight. Blue-uniformed militiamen went through vari-ous evolutions as they were relieved in squads for breakfast. Stacks of muskets and piles formed of knapsacks were scattered over the streets. Here and there a few soldiers were sitting upon any available object reading the newspapers. Debolt's restaurant was in a great state of activity, as file after file of militiamen marched there for breakfast. Here and there on the sidewalks were numerous blood-stains, where some unfortunate man had been killed or wounded. About the court! house! ruins were great piles of smouldering and blackened public records rescued too late from the burning building. The two brass cannons captured from the mob last night occupied a prominent position on Sycamore-st. Fire engines 4 and 7 were playing on What was yesterday a magnificent county building loomed up a sad monument of the mob's violence. Its walls all remained standing, but almost everything inside of them had been consumed, the wire work warped and twisted, and the stones cracked and scarred. The roof had disappeared, and the sun shone unobstructed into the court room where Berner was tried. Much of the Court House was built of iron, brick and stone, and the shells of the various stories and rooms, as well as the iron stairways, still remained solid. Outside the building the vacaut remained solid. Outside the building the vacant door and window spaces revealed the ruin within. Some smoke and team arose from the nearly extinguished fire. On the north side the iron shutters on the Auditor's office windows were warped by the heat, while the entire front of the building showed many little light colored specks where building showed many ped off pieces of the stone. The surrounding buildings also showed marks from rocks, brickbats and boulders.

THE DAMAGE FROM THE FIRE. Of the immense quantity of county records those only of the Recorder's office were saved, and these only partially and in a damaged condition. The fire reached this office the last of any part of the mob that an attack would be make either the building, and the fire engines immediately on on the city buildings or on Third-st, in their arrival played upon it. Much of the evening with a view of drawing the militia the furniture, the clock, desks, bookcases from the jail. The greatest precantion was taken, and their contents were saved. Everything was also destroyed in the Auditor's office. The duplicate for the June taxes went with the rest and tax collections will be in a terrible state. In the Treasurer's office all that could be consumed by the fire was destroyed. The safe, which cost the county $7,000, still stands apparently unharmed. It is both fire and burgiar proof and is locked by a time lock. Auditor Brewster says it contained valuables and money amounting to $250,000, and it is the general belief that its contents are safe. In the office of the County Commissioner. Board of Control, Coroner, Sheriff, Surveyers, Engineers and in all the court rooms everything was swept away. From the Sheriff's office $600 was deposited in the Lafayette Bank yesterday afternoon. The safe in Lafayette Bank yesterday afternoon. The safe in this office has not yet been opened, but the smoke issuing from it this morning gave small promise of saving anything therefrom. The same can be said of the sales in the Auditor's office and Common Pleas court room, No. 5. It was in fact believed that the contents of every safe in the building, except the Treasurer's are consumed. The safe in Room 5, contained all the criminal indictments, and if they are destroyed there will be nothing to show against criminals.

At 5425 o'clock word was received at general adaptives that a large mob had broken into Music Hall by forcing the door, and were trying to man a cannon on exhibition in Power Hall. A PROCLAMATION COMMANDING ORDER-ALL THE MILITIA ASKED FOR.

[GENERAL PRESS DISPATCIL] CINCINNATI, March 30 .- Plans for the protection of life and property have been matured to-day. There has been a great lack of a head. Mayor Stephens has been dangerously ill with pneumonia, and yesterday left his bed at the risk of his life to give directions. He spent the whole night in his office and at points where could be of the most service. To-day he is in great danger of a relapse, but his plans have taken shape, and the virtual control of both the civil and military forces is in the hands of eminent citizens, with General J. D. Cox as leading adviser. This morning the Mayor issued a formal call for a meeting of citizens to devise means of protecting the city from the ravages of the mob. A list of 100 names was selected and most of them were informed at once. Of these the greater number responded to the call immediately, meeting at the Mayer's office. It was agreed to issue the following call from the Mayor and distribute it throughout the city: You are requested to meet other citizens who have been appointed an advisory committee, at the City Build-ings this (Sunday) evening at 7 o'clock.

Since by the Mayor:

Misguided men, alleging indignation that the criminal laws are not properly executed, have themselves been led inte the crime of assaulting public officers of the peace and destroying property. I, therefore, Mayor of Cincinnati, do berely command all such persons to desist from their lawlessness and obey the constituted authorities. I call upon all good citizens to rally for the preservation of the public peace. Such as are willing to euroil themselves as special police during the emergency will please report themselves at the police station posterest their homes, where the officer in charge is hereby directed to euroil them and provide means of assembling them. Members of the Grand Army of the Republic are requested to assemble with their officers at their posts and report themselves by messenger to me for similar duty. The citizens are warned to keep the boys and youth of their families at home, and all to remain quiet in their houses, except those organized and enrolled as above directed. All persons found on the streets after 7 o'clock will be required to show good cause for being abroad. The authorities of the city and State are determined that order shall be immediately and permanently restored, and the consequence of disobedience to this proclamation will be upon those who fall to regard it. sned by the Mayor:

The following was issued this afternoon by the Mayor and directed to Adjutant-General Finley: I hereby request that the Governor concentrate in this city immediately all the available force of the Oluo milicity immediately all the available force of the Ohio mili-tia, believing that the presence of a strong body of troops will save the necessity for their actual use.

Accordingly, Adjutant-General Finley ordered Colonel Entreken, of the 6th Regiment, with headquarters at Chillicothe, to muster his troops at once and come to Cincinnati by special train. This was done, and the regiment arrived here at 4

THE MAYOR'S COURSE APPROVED. More than 200 of the most prominent business men of the city met at 7 o'clock to-night in the Council Chember at the city building, Mayor Stephens presided. He stated what had been done to protect the city, and asked if the action taken was approved. Ex-Governor J. D. Cox and General Andrew Hickenlooper were among the speakers. The general sentiment was in favor of upholding the Mayor and Adjutant-General in their action. After expressing confidence in the management of affairs, the committee adjourned to meet at 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

Most of them were ordered to Cincinnati during the day and the rest to-night. The railroad officials had been called upon to run special trains for the transportation of the troops that had been run into this city during the day on orders to rendezvous here, and this evening they were dispatched to Cincinnati. The Governor's office has been crowded all day with counsellors and those belping to issue orders and answer the hundreds of dispatches coming in. It is the first general appearance of war times here since 1865. The Governor also orders all the State ammunition to the scene of the riot and borrowed supmunition to the scene of the riot and borrowed supplies and equipment from the United States barracks, having exhausted his military chest on the forces in the field. He has his headquarters in the office of Generai Manager Me-Crea, of the Pittsburg, Cincinnati and St. Lons Railroad, where a wire is kept free for him to communicate with the moving troops and those in Cincinnati in command of the troops called from this and other points. UNDER BROADWAY. RAILROAD BILL REPORTED FAVORABLY.

FATAL MISTAKE OF A FISHING PARTY-DEATH OF REVIEW OF SOME REMARKABLE PROVISIONS OF THE PROPOSED ACT.

[FROM THE REGULAR CORRESPONDENT OF THE TRIBUNE.]
ALBANY, March 30.—A tall man of noble bearing, with silvery gray hair and mustache, beneath which the lips seem to be constantly smiling, has lately day after day been present at the sessions of the Legislature. There sits by his side a sleek and shrewd-looking man of medium height, clad in smooth black broadcloth of a somewhat clerical cut. This man is no clergyman, however, but Melville C. Smith, the president of the Broadway Underground Railroad Company, and his companion, the man with the gray hair, is Gilbert C. Walker, ex-Governor of Virginia, now a resident of this State. Mr. Smith and Mr. Gilbert desire to put a railroad under Broadway, New-York, and with this object in view for two months past have been endeavoring to get a bill through the Legislature "extending and supplementing the rights, powers and duties heretofore possessed, conferred and imposed upon the Broadway Underground Railway Company."

In this purpose they have been stoutly opposed by many of the property-owners along New-York's noble thoroughfare. Among the property-owners who are opposing the bill are James M. Brown, William Dowd, William E. Dodge, Jesse Seligman, F. S. Winston, president of the Matual Life Insurance Company; George F. Baker, president of the First National Bank; Amos R. Eno, Orlando B. Potter, as trustee of the estates of Edward and Elizabeth Jones; the Trinity Church Corporation, Mrs. A. T. Stewart, Henry Hilton and George Peabody Wetmore. Week before last a committee representing these persons appeared before the Senate Committee on Railroads and made arguments against the bill, showing the great danger to buildings on Broadway if an underground railroad should be built beneath the street and the interruption to street traffic that would be caused by the work of constructing the road. Yet the Railroad Committee, after a week's consideration of these arguments, reported the bill favorably. This was done on Wednesday last, and the bill was ordered printed. The printers completed their work yesterday, and property-owners can now obtain a copy of the measure by sending to the Document Clerk of the Senate or Assembly.

HOW THE ROAD IS TO BE BUILT. It is Senate bill No. 337. A short summary of it may be of interest. Whether from special interest in the subject or not, the projectors first discuss in the bill the methods of issuing stock. They state that "the lirectors of said company may issue, upon such terms and conditions as they shall deem best, the shares of the capital stock of said company from time to time at not less than par for money, and in payment for money due by said company, and for rights, materials, labor and property necessary for the purposes of said company." Apparently the contractors who are to build the road are to be paid in stock. Permission is given to the company to "excavate for its road-bed the earth between the outer lines of the sub-surface sidewalks of not less than sixteen feet"; in other words, to dig up the roadway of Broadway to a depth of sixteen feet while constructing its roads. The Legislature has been showered for weeks past with an illustrated newspaper containing an illustration of Broadway undergoing this upheaval-but of course no interruption to travel on the street is confessed in the picture. On the contrary there is a temporary roadway over the excavation, and the innocent-minded dray-horse is depicted ambling gracefully across the structure, unaware of the awful depth beneath its feet, where laborers are undermining the foundations of all

There are provisions also which show that the company dreams that persons will seek the seclusion of the excavation for an afternoon walk; prefering to be in sight and hearing of the swift trains that will rush through the tunnel-like place to walking in the open air in the sunlight. The company, however, will reserve certain sections of the sub-surface walks for their depots, "together with seventy-five feet additional thereto upon of any such depot or station." INVASION OF OTHER STREETS.

The fifth section apporently gives the company he extraordinary right to occupy adjacent streets as well as Broadway while excavating that thoroughfare. It states that "the said company, for the purposes of removing and receiving the materials necessary to be removed and received while constructing its works, shall have the right to construct and use tramways for such removal and reception upon, aud to make all necessary excavations beneath any street crossing or running from any street crossing, or running from any street, avenue, square, or publie place above any part or portion of its road-bed." The company is moreover given "full power and authority to remove all sewers, water, gas, steam and other pipes, as well as all wires, tubes, and other obstructions to the necessary work of the con-struction of its road-bed and of the sub-surface

TIME OF CONSTRUCTION. The bill makes it the duty of the Governor to appoint three commissioners, who are to supervise the work of construction and see that it is properly performed. This board of three commissioners is performed. This board of three commissioners is also to learn if proper financial arrangements have been made for the construction of the road. The act declares that the board shall authorize the work of construction "whenever the said company shall prove to said board that the full amount of the capital stock of said company, or a sufficient amount thereof, has been subscribed, or other financial arrangements made for commencing within two years and completing the first section of its railway or railways from the Battery or Bowling Green under Broadway to Forty-second-st, within five years from and after July 1, 1884." There is a remarkable provision that in case legal proceedings shall delay any portion of the work, "double the time so lost shall be added to the time allowed in this act for completing said first section; and any bond which shall have been heretofore executed and delivered to secure the completion of said first section of said read and delivered to secure the completion of said first section of said railway." Apparently the company on its execution and delivered to sempleting the first section of said railway. "Apparently the company anticipates a good deal of ting attention of the completing the first section of said railway." Apparently the company anticipates a good deal of ting for the completion of its road and practically keep Broadway in a disturbed state endlessly. Would also bondholders patiently submit to a perpetual call and recall of freir bonds?

Financial Management. also to learn if proper financial arrangements have

FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT. Great latitade is permitted the directors in managing the financial part of the concern. Thus Section 12 confers the following unrestricted powers: tion 12 confers the following unrestricted powers:

The board of directors of said company shall have power, by a three-liftle vote, from time to time to borrow any sum of money they may deem necessary for its lusiness and for constructing, completing and finishing or operating its said works and railways, and to issue and dispose of its bonds for any amount so borrowed, and to mortgage its corporate property, rights and franchises to secure the payment of any bond or other evidence of debt made or contracted by the company for the purposes aforesaid; and it shall not be necessary to procure or file the consent by the stockholders to the execution of any such mortgage, or to file as a chattel mortgage any mortgage executed by the company upon both real and personal property, but said mortgage shall be recorded as a mortgage of real estate.

RIGHTS AND TITLES. The company is also given " all the rights, powers, privileges, franchises and property heretofore possessed by or conferred upon it under its present and previous name." Is this a revival of any of the rights of the Beach Pucumatic Company which are suspected to have lapsed ? The company is also gi, on all the rights now possessed by railroad companies under the general law of 1850 to acquire lands. I here is, lrowever, a strange exception to the limitations of that act. The bill says in regard to acquiring title to land:

Except that in any of the proceedings for such acquisi-tion of title, it shall not be necessary that the petition to the Supreme Court shall make any allegation of, or re-ference to any incorporation, capital stock, survey or
